Healthcare is hard when words get in the way.

WellAbroad helps travelers understand medical documents and explain how they feel in a language their care team can understand.

A communication aid for care abroad

A clinic visit is harder when you can’t be understood.

01

A report you can’t read

Medical terms and unfamiliar languages make important details easy to miss.

02

Symptoms you can’t explain

It is hard to describe what hurts, when it began, and what has changed.

03

Stress makes it easy to forget medicines, allergies, or other key information.

Two moments. One simple goal: be understood.

01 DOCUMENT EXPLAINER

Understand what your document says.

Upload a photo or PDF. Get a plain-language explanation. Ask a follow-up question.

02 CONSULTATION PREP

Explain how you feel.

Answer simple guided questions. Skip what you don’t know. Prepare a note for a clinician.

Start with the document you have.

01

Choose a language

Pick the language you want the explanation in.

02

Upload a photo or PDF

Use a clear image of a report, prescription, or note.

03

Read the explanation

Unclear sections are called out instead of guessed.

A useful explanation stays close to the source.

What it says, in simpler words

FOLLOW UP

“What does this section mean?”

Ask about the document. If the answer isn’t in it, WellAbroad should say so and point you back to a clinician or pharmacist.

One question at a time. In the traveler’s own words.

WELLABROAD

What is bothering you most right now?

TRAVELER

I have had a headache since yesterday.

WELLABROAD

When did it start? How severe is it?

TRAVELER

Answer, or skip a question. A skip stays “not provided” - it never becomes “no.”

The final questions cover current medicines, allergies, and known conditions.

Leave with a clear note for the clinician.

COMPLAINT

FOR THE CARE TEAM

A formal version in the local language

FOR THE TRAVELER

A copy in their own language to review

A clearer path to care, wherever you are.

UNDERSTAND

Make medical documents easier to read.

EXPLAIN

Put symptoms into words that travel across languages.

CONNECT

Help travelers feel more prepared for a care conversation.

Clearer understanding. More confident conversations. Care that feels closer to home.

Built with care, for care abroad.
